

An Update on Women's Cancers

Dr. Ana María López, MD, MPH, FACP

President, American College of Physicians

Improved understanding of signaling pathways has had a great impact on the care of cancer patients. Immunotherapy approaches utilize immune checkpoint inhibitors, vaccines, and adoptive cell therapies. This presentation will outline the role of immune approaches in women's cancers and will discuss mechanisms of response, resistance, and development of combination treatment strategies.